WOMAN SENTENCED FOR BANK LARCENY

CONCORD, NEW HAMPSHIRE -- United States Attorney Tom Colantuono and Special Agent in Charge of the Boston Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation Kenneth W. Kaiser, announced that Stephanie Acorn, a 30-year-old resident of 5 Danforth Rd., Nashua, New Hampshire, was sentenced to six months home confinement and three years probation by Chief United States District Court Judge Paul Barbadoro earlier today. Acorn was also ordered by Judge Barbadoro to pay full restitution to the bank.

A former bank teller at the Nashua, New Hampshire northeast branch of Citizens Bank, Acorn pleaded guilty of bank larceny last March. The offense stemmed from conduct occurring between December 2001 and July 2002, through which Acorn used a variety of means to steal $12,688 from Citizens Bank.

After Acorn was sentenced, United States Attorney Colantuono stated, "This office will continue to aggressively prosecute all cases that involve the theft of money from federally insured banks." Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Kinsella prosecuted this case.
